Abstract

The thesis is divided into two parts, the theoretical and research. The theoretical part deals with the issue of colorectal cancer. Discusses about the risk factors of CRC such as bad dietary habits, alcohol consumption and nicotinism and protective factors mainly intake of vegetable and fruits and physical activity. The aim of the research part is real verification of these factors among patients with colorectal cancer.