

Abstract

This diploma thesis describes the current state of social field work in the Fokus organization and their experience with the involvement of a peer worker. Another aim was to define key concepts, to formulate possible recommendations. The empirical part of this work focuses on the specific experience of Fokus with the involvement of the peer worker through structured interviews, case studies, proceedings and practical experience gained through work at Fokus.