

Abstract:

The bachelor thesis titled „Labelling at School and its Impact on the Individual“ describes the possible consequences of labelling of an individual. The work is focused on providing basic information about the theory of labelling, its forms and possible impacts on an individual’s life. The theoretical part of the thesis describes the theory of labelling, opinions of selected authors, descriptions of individuals who possess strong prerequisites to be labelled and the potential impacts on the development of labelled individual. The practical part contains interviews with the continuity of open coding which is aimed at pointing out the context label assignment, the effect of labelling, label acceptance and its impact.