

The bachelor thesis „Social Educator and his Work with Clients“ is focused on problems of work and relations between social educator and his clients. The aim is to summarize in key aspects social educators working as assisting professionals with clients. It describes the legislative position of social educators, the possibility of their professional employment and their clients. The main part is devoted to professional relationships between them and to aspects that create it, i.e. human element of a relationship, communication or more specific elements as a query of engagement or power. The thesis also describes topics as boundaries, ethics, supervision and possible interferences in personal life of social educators, e.g. burnout syndrome.