

Annotation

The bachelor thesis is focused on social pathological phenomena and the leisure time. It defines the context between the emergence of socially undesirable phenomena and the leisure time activities of pupils at the first stage of primary school. The first part describes leisure time, its importance and utilization, the environment affecting the child and the most common social pathological phenomena in the period of the younger and middle school age. The aim of the bachelor thesis is to find out whether the way of spending leisure time influences the emergence of the risky behaviour that was detected by the anonymous questionnaire survey.
