

Abstract

The bachelor thesis deals with the issue of home hospice care. There is a historical excursion into the issue, the legal framework for the provision of these field health and social services, a survey of the scope of providing these services in the Czech Republic and the practical aspects of the terrain performance of the service.