

Abstract

The bachelor thesis concentrates on the phenomenon called hate crimes in cyberspace. In the first place thesis maps possible interpretation of this phenomenon and presents various opinions of authors. Furthermore, thesis concentrates on the description of cyberspace and cybercrime. It also lists types of hate crimes in cyberspace. In the last chapters thesis concentrates on perpetrators and victims of hate crimes in cyberspace. The aim of this thesis is to map all these topics.

Proposal of the practical part is focused on the victims of hate crimes in cyberspace. The research is quantitative and aim to find out if there is a difference between psychological effects of the hate crime on victims who have suffered cyber attacks and the victims who have experienced attack in real life.

Keywords

hate crimes, cyberspace, cybercrime, victims