

ABSTRACT

The objective of this bachelor thesis is to provide a translation from English to Czech and a commentary of the translation process. The source texts are taken from Caitlin Moran's book Moranifesto, published in 2016, which is a collection of columns and essays on topics such as politics and feminist issues. The second part of this thesis includes a text analysis of the English original, description of the method of translation, typology of translation problems which arose during the process, translation procedures and shifts that occurred.

KEY WORDS

translation, text analysis, translation methods, translation procedures, translation shifts, text, syntax, lexis, newspaper columns, problems of contemporary politics, feminism, Britain