

ABSTRACT

Author:	Jana Žalská
Institution:	Department of Social Medicine LF UK in Hradec Kralove Department of Nursing
Title of the work:	The influence of awareness about sexually transmitted diseases, sexual behavior of high school students
Academic advisor:	Mgr. Eva Vachková, Ph.D.
Number of pages:	83
Number of attachments:	4
Defended in:	2018
Key words:	adolescence, sexually transmitted diseases, sex, sexual education, health literacy, gender identity

The bachelor thesis is on the topic "Influence of awareness of sexually transmitted diseases on the sexual behaviour of high school youth".

The theoretical part deals with sexual diseases and sexually transmitted diseases. It describes the period of adolescence, physical transformation and gender differences in adolescence. It also deals with health literacy in youth, health education, and sexual education.

The empirical part looks into the knowledge of secondary school youth about sexual diseases and their prevention and the way of protection against sexually transmitted diseases, next this part looks into the sources from which they receive information. It also investigates whether their knowledge of this issue has an effect on sexual behaviour.

Quantitative research was applied by a non-standardized questionnaire. The resulting data is processed into tables and graphs.