

In this work is described the suggestion and implementation of CASE tool for conceptual and relational database design. The Program provides a double-level editor for creation ER and RMD models, admits transformation of ER model into relational model and simultaneously transformation of these schemes into SQL scripts. The Program admits checking of created schemes in both levels. Another part of the work is analysis of existing programs that focus on similar tasks.