

The object of this work is to design and implement a vector editor with animation support. This program is designated for a very specialized group of users that want to create simple animations but find buying complex commercial tools unnecessary. The application will allow user to design basic vector objects, edit them and set them into motion using curved trajectories. Main features of the application are its modularity and flexibility, making it ready for future extending and customization.