The rational aspect of abort

Abstract
The Diploma thesis „The rational aspect of abort“ try to clarification rational aspect of abort. However a religious viewpoint is not the main topic of this thesis, author doesn’t leave it out and one separate chapter of this work is dedicated to it. Author endeavours to find an answer whether it is possible to consider an abort to be ethical and in what conditions. The thesis is trying to explain various aspects of abort in Czech Republic as well as abroad, it is also following a medical view-point and various executive methods of aborts. There is an aspiration to refer to the historical advancement of abort opinion and to resolve an origin of this problem. Disposition of this work is to disclose not only the moral aspects but also the feelings of the woman experiencing an abort including after-effects on her. The important chapter there is the postabortal syndrome which is not accepted as a medical diagnosis associated with psychological effects of abort. There is a short questionnaire inserted in the thesis which refers to some women’s opinions and experiences.

Keywords
abortion, sorts of abortion, abortion and mental health, unwanted children, the dispute over the status of the embryo