

Summary

The bachelor thesis "The Possibilities of Using Horticultural Therapy for Persons with Visual Impairment in the House for Patients with Visual Impairment named Palata" deals with the theme of horticultural therapy and ways of its application to people with visual impairment in a particular facility. Theoretical part includes definitions of key topics such as visual impairment, dementia and horticultural therapy. However, it mostly focuses on horticultural therapy and the limitations and possibilities of their use. The practical part contains a description of designed and tested possibilities of use as well as their evaluation and final modification of individual examples.