

Abstract:

This diploma thesis aims to create the comprehensive summary of modern Tibetan history before and after Chinese invasion, primarily the period between the years 1933-1959. At the same time the description of discrepancies between respective researchers is emphasized.

Although high-quality secondary literature was used, there can be found minor or major contradictions in the statements of reputable scientists. For this reason there are mentioned both statements in these cases. Description of possible reason of the contradiction is also included.

Several major discrepancies between the researchers' statements have been found, which were elaborated more precisely. Summary of a part of modern Tibetan history was created as well, because there is a lack of Czech language publications concerning this topic.