

Abstract

This work targets to analyse coalitions negotiation and them creation council of selected regions. At first work will be described and theory of coalition, which explains creation coalitions. Within theory of coalition will be introduced European traditional, American traditional and motivation of actors for entry and formation of coalition. Next will be deal with typology of coalition, when will be introduced individual types of coalitions.

Afterward it focuses the individual region and that Ústecký, Pardubický, Královohradecký and Pilsen Region. Every region will have characteristic region, evolution of party system from creating of regions structure to 2012 years. Afterward will by results of election 2012. Based on results of election will be presented potential coalition, which could create. The next will be electoral programs of success political subjects and finally negotiating about region coalition. In conclusion work summary, where will be answer to question why movement ANO 2011 did not creating coalition like winner of elections in these regions.