

Abstract in English

This text is devoted to the creation of logarithmic tables at the beginning of the 17th century. The key person is John Napier and the thesis focuses on his work. The goal is to explain the historical context and to show how mathematicians of that time were thinking when inventing logarithms.