

Abstract

The aim of this bachelor's thesis is to translate a text by Katharine Viner called "How technology disrupted the truth" from English to Czech. The second part of the thesis contains an analysis of the source text as well as a description of the translation problems.