

Abstract

This bachelor's thesis is composed of two main parts: a translation of the original French text and its commentary. The subject of the original text is represented by an ecological behavior in our everyday life, that means practical advices for everyone. The principal aim of this bachelor's thesis is to make an adequate translation of the original text from French into Czech and to supply it with an expert commentary.