

Abstract

This thesis focuses on the quality of speech of Ivan Bartoš. That is being examined through three speeches, which were selected as representative for a specific type of political speech. Because of their spoken nature, the transcription of those speeches is attached, as well as a list of symbols and abbreviations used in the transcription.

The key section of the thesis is linguistic analysis of the speeches, which is made on five linguistic levels. Each chapter has its relevant theoretical basis, then concrete examples show whether the speaker adheres to the stylistic norm. In the conclusion of every analysis is a comparison of the speeches, it is determined how the speaker adheres to the stylistic norm of rhetoric in general and whether his speech has any specifics.

In the conclusion of the thesis, the findings of the research are summarized, the specifics of the speaker's speech are mentioned and it is determined whether the speech of Ivan Bartoš could be considered a quality one.
