

Abstract

The bachelor's thesis titled Exploration of the Activities of the Archdiocesan Charity Prague focusing on the Adopce na dálku® (remote adoption) project provides information about the activities of this charity focusing on the project, which facilitates access to education for children from underdeveloped countries. The Adopce na dálku® project is analysed here in detail, being highlighted as the most significant one. The thesis contains both positive and negative evaluation of the project, including little research concentrated on how charity and sponsorship of children are perceived in the catholic and non-catholic environment.
