

Abstract

The aim of this study is to analyze the level of privacy of person in the Czech Republic and further analysis of the scope of protection of rights regarding honor, esteem, human dignity and the protection of name with regard to current legislation and judicial decisions. I focused primarily on interventions, criticism, and collection of data and the possibility of receiving satisfaction. The issue was analyzed mainly on the basis of judgments that can also be used at time the effectiveness of current legislation, which is also based on the rulings of the ECHR.