

Abstract

This bachelor's thesis consists of the translation of the chapter China and the World. Tiger Head, Snake Tails: China Today, How It Got There and Why It Has To Change by J. Fenby and the commentary of the translation which consists of the original text analysis, description of the translation method, and the types of translation problems and translation shifts.

Key words

Translation, translation analysis, translation method, translation problems, China, foreign policy