

Title of the bachelor thesis:

Ways of obtaining information about political events in the Czech republic by seniors

Abstract:

This bachelor thesis focuses on the ways in which seniors get information about political events in the Czech Republic. The main goal of the thesis is to find out how seniors get information about political events in the Czech Republic and what role have electronic sources in obtaining these specific information. The theoretical part defines the basic concepts related to seniors, information and media literacy and digital divide. This part also includes statistics mapping seniors in the Czech republic and an analysis of the manipulation tools that seniors encounter. The practical part contains research which analyses access to media and politics, electronic resources and verification of information by respondents. At the end of the thesis is analysed the result of the research.
