

My thesis refers to the broad issue of education in institution. It focuses on adolescents with dystropy. It tries to reveal what is possible concerning the role of psychologist in institution and in the same time what is limiting psychologist's work. My thesis has analyzed the data of clients, psychologists and other cooperating professions. It lays stress on the work with clients and in the same time on the own role of the psychologist.

My thesis used qualitative characters and data processing model concerning the explorational methods. The data were collected using questionnaire filled in by clients, psychologists and other cooperating professions - all of different institutions. Those data were analyzed and were integrated with half - structured interview.

My aim was to make a broader insight to the issue of education in institution. I did a final review of empirical - picked up evidence at the very end of my thesis and in its discussion. I tried to call the attention to some questionable points concerning education adolescent clients.
