

The present work deals with analysis of cell subpopulations in normal mouse cornea and the expression of specific markers of these cells. Another goal of this work was to monitor the origin and function of immune cells infiltrating fibrin mesh in the anterior chamber after orthotopic corneal transplantation.