

This master's thesis is concerned with ethics in relation to the contemporary media, with a special emphasis on electronic media and their impact on the fragmentarization of both ethics and the objective view of the world.