The aim of the thesis is to map the history of the elementary school in Roztyly in 1928–1939. The school itself was founded in 1928 as a mixed school in Roztyly. In the period from 1928 to 1931, the school was located in temporary premises until the completion and opening of a new purpose-built building. Over time, the teaching staff was formed and the number of new pupils increased. This work will capture the development of the school in the first decade. The chronicle data will then be compared with other sources listed below in the List of References and Sources.

The basic source of the work will be the archive of the Roztyly elementary school, the archive of the Roztyly district, the Prague City Archives in Chodov and the archive of the school itself. In addition, literature will be used for the history of primary education in the First Republic and more general work on the history of Prague and Czechoslovak history.
