

Abstract (english):

This bachelor's thesis deals with the activities of extraordinary people's courts in Kutná Hora and Mladá Boleslav, focusing mainly on the activities of the Public Prosecutor's Office and public prosecutors as such in the above-mentioned extraordinary people's courts. It deals with the general characteristics and specific features of these extraordinary people's courts. Their origin, development, organization and functioning with regard to the aspect of popularity in these courts in the form of judges from the people and their issues. Then it will focus specifically on public prosecution offices - on their staffing and related difficulties, eg in communication with district national committees. It also discusses the issue of the functioning of post-war justice and how it manifested itself in this office, for example, the constant regulations of the Ministry of Justice. It also deals with the proposed penalties and how their amount and character were determined by nationality. Last but not least, it deals with individual types of documents stored in the relevant fonds.

Key Words (english):

Extraordinary People's Court, Retribution, Public Prosecutor, Ministry of Justice, District National Committees, Judges from the people