

Abstract (in English):

The bachelor's thesis provides a detailed analysis of the names of hockey clubs in the Czech Republic. In the first chapter I deal with chrematonyms in the onymic system, and especially with the position of this specific type of chrematonyms. I also compare the names of Czech hockey clubs to other chrematonymic groups of proper names. In the next chapter I collect material from available online sources. Another part of the thesis is dedicated to classification of the names. It is based on both motivational and formal method. Finally, I pay attention to other aspects, such as the number of individual components, grammar and spelling of the names (the use of capital letters, which is largely influenced by English, is stressed).