

Medical slang in Russia and Czech Republic

In this work there are analysis and comparison of medical slang in Russian and Czech society. The theoretical part is based on available specialized literature; the practical part is focused on various ways of enriching the medical officers' vocabulary, and also on comparison of this slang in two languages. The purpose of writing this work is to study medical slang, determine reasons, why it is used, study its word-formation, and to form semantic classification in two languages. As well, there were dictionaries of gathered words and phrases (in Russian and Czech) with their interpretation enclosed to this work.
