

Abstract:

This bachelor's thesis deals with description and evaluation of translations of Ivan Cankar's novels into Czech and emphasis will be also put on reception of the translations in Czech press compared to the domestic readers' reception of this prolific Slovene author. Overall, the task will also be to depict the attributes of the certain stages in Czech-Slovene literary relations and to introduce its main representative on the Czech side – which means translators of Slovenian.