

Abstract

The bachelor thesis shows what are the needs of unintentionally pregnant women and what problems they solve. The theoretical part introduces the topic of human needs, values of life and pregnancy. The key concepts are pregnancy as a social event and an overview of the possibilities of support and help for women. The aim of the practical part is to find out the needs of unintentionally pregnant women. The qualitative research uses methods of content analysis of written texts. The main part is the analysis and interpretation of the acquired data and practical recommendations.