

This thesis deals with dates of birth of the Přemyslids within the generation of grandsons and great-grandsons of Břetislav I. After evaluation of relevant original sources and literature with respect to the given problematics, the thesis points some methodic issues connected with the study of dates of birth out. Having defined general principles, first investigates the order of Přemyslids according to their age, finally determines concrete dates of birth. The purpose of the thesis focuses on vindication of the dates-of-birth-studies as well as preparation for future investigation in political, social and legal history of the Middle Ages.