Nowadays, podcasts are a phenomenon and their trend is still growing. This bachelor thesis is focused on Czech Radio's news podcast specifically Vinohradská 12 and it's in the form of a radio report. In the theoretical part, the author gives context for the practical audio part, which is the result of studying the topic, and then proceeds from the definition of basic terms to the description of creating the practical part, which is attached separately. The practical part of my bachelor's thesis is a journalistic contribution for a radio medium, in which the author describes the process of creation of news podcast Vinohradská 12.

The radio report includes archival sounds, excerpts of interviews, which were crucial for the radio report, and even background noises taken in the process of creating the podcast. The script of the practical part is included.
