

Abstract

The diploma thesis deals with the effectiveness of the completed UN peacekeeping missions in Africa from the year 2000. Firstly, a development of peacekeeping is summarized. The next part -the theoretical part- is focused on a definition of effectiveness criterion (a dependent variable), chosen independent variable and there is analysed literature which the female author used. There is explained chosen criterion for the researched peacekeeping operation – UNMEE, MINUCI, UNOCI, UNMIL and ONUB question is focused on the dependent variable – the effectiveness of the peacekeeping missions. The second research question deals with the group of the dependent variables (Factors of effectiveness).