

Summary

The theme of the Bachelor's thesis is a preview, approximation and at least partial intrusion into the work of a field social worker working with people addicted to addictive substances directly "face to face", in their natural environment. My work focuses mainly on the main paradigm of this work. I divided the work into two parts: theoretical and empirical or practical. As I have already mentioned, in the first part I will deal with professional concepts such as social field work, Harm reduction program and I will introduce the field service of the organization Renarkon o.p.s., which operates in the Novojičín region. And last but not least, I will mention the mission and goals of this field program. In the second part, I will focus on the social field worker dedicated to his mission and work with addicts, as a person who has his visions, wishes, ideas, needs and requirements, how he would streamline and improve his work.

Keywords Field social work, harm reduction, addiction, people with addictions, drugs, field program in the Novy Jicin region.
