The Madonna from Augustinians Monastery in Třeboň

The limestone statue of beautiful Madonna from the Monastery of Augustinians friary is standing near the column in the middle of the church. This statue is in many views very remarkable artwork. In her drapery are included compositions of two famous Madonna statues – Madonna from Český Krumlov and Madonna from Wrocław. Influence of the Madonna from Třeboň on the next evolution of czech gothic sculpture wasn't insignificant. Its place in the czech Beautiful Style is very important, because this work is standing between top and the late phase of this art epoch. Similar it is with Madonna from Vimperk from the time before 1400. On the end of Beautiful Style is standing Madonna from Chlum sv. Maří, which was probably created on the beginning of fifteenth century and which represents the keywork to the Late Gothic.
