The goal of this project is to create library for programming software agents (robots), virtual environment for simulation of their battle, including visualization. Aplication is implemented by .NET technology, library for programming robot is possible to use in any language which support .NET technology. Optimal robot strategy depends on many parameters of virtual environment, which can be adjusted. Robot has available limited resources, which his autor can use.