The aim of this work is to create a graphic environment for studying finite automata and to build a Delphi component library, which contains components representing automata. Creating a set of automata operations, that can represent a mathematical proof of automata thesis, is also important part of work. Also the implementation of these operations inside the environment as a built-in script language. The work also contains a guide of how to extend the component library and the script language.