

Subject of this diploma work is focused on human resources in healthcare system in The Czech Republic. It includes description of system's background which influences healthcare human resource management. Then the framework of healthcare workforce is described. After that individual aspects in healthcare human resource management are dealt. Following chapters enlarge healthcare human resource planning, recruitment and selection, employee relations, safety and health security in healthcare, motivation and performance, compensation and education and development of healthcare labourforce.