

Abstract

This bachelor thesis provides a translation of selected parts of A Singapore Bioethics Casebook (National University of Singapore, 2017). A collective work, this digital publication consists of two volumes presenting several bioethics case studies supported by expert commentaries. The selected parts include a case study called Lina and several expert commentaries. The second part of the thesis contains a commentary on the translation, including the original text analysis, the description of the chosen translation method and translation problems along with their solutions.

Key words

translation, translation analysis, translation problems, translation procedures, healthcare ethics