

This study concerns on humanitarian and development aid as a contribution to a higher life quality and economical and social development of less developed countries; on an economical and social situation of an Ukrainian Zakarpacia region and on possible further development of a humanitarian aid project led in Zacarpacia by Czech brothern church.

In a theoretical part the study brings a background research of the terms „humanitarian and development aid and factographical and analytical data about Zacarpacia. A research part is based on a qualitative research made among receivers and distributors of the Czech brothern church's humanitarian aid in Zacarpacia and among representatives of czech NGOs and churches which are leading humanitarian projects in Zacarpacia. The research was completed by background study of basis documents of these humanitarian organisations.

The aim was to build a model of humanitarian work in Zakarpacia on the basis of czech humanitarian projects in the region, compare it with an analysis of interviews with respondents and use it for a suggestion of a further development of the Czech brothern church's humanitarian project.