

The task of this bachelor's thesis is to describe the situation on the Roman political scene in 46 B.C. and to present an annotated translation of selected Cicero's letters addressed to his friends and in some way related to one of the events of that year, namely to pardon for Marcellus.