

Abstract

The aim of the bachelor's thesis is to describe the reconstruction of the Hradec Králové Library building in the form of a case study. In order to better understand the problems, to penetrate into depth and to understand the circumstances that led to the reconstruction of the selected building, the history of the library and the factory premises where the library was moved is described in the introduction to the thesis. Part of the thesis is also a description of the project itself and all stages of the reconstruction of the library building. The practical part is focused on interviews with selected representatives – with the library management, the project architect and the founder of the library. Interviews of respondents are carried out in the form of qualitative interviews, subsequent analysis and comparison of interviews. The final part of the thesis is a personal opinion on the reconstruction carried out on the basis of an evaluation of the knowledge from the theoretical and practical part.
