Defence Questions	Grade
Taking into consideration concept of homonationalism is US in origin, how do you deal with the tensions involved in applying it to the Dutch context?
On religion and the idea that only one identity counts, that of being gay, isn't homonationalism really a Christian perspective?
You talk about your thesis as inter-disciplinary, please explain why it is inter and why not cross or trans-disciplinary?
Are black and brown people who are 2 nd or 3 rd generation immigrants or of mixed race and therefore Dutch born really excluded from homonationalism – do they themselves exclude themselves or are they excluded?
What do you see as the role for homonationalism at a political level?
If you were going to return to theory, how would you insert your claims about protonationalism into homonationalist theory?
