

1. Study contemporary methods for lexical, syntactic and semantic analysis for programming languages.
2. Define reduction of the programming language Pascal which may be implemented as an interpreter and which save some profitable Pascal's feature.
3. Define lexical and syntax rules and specify semantics of this language.
4. Implement the interpreter of defined language and test its functionality using some forward prepared examples.