

Annotation

Bachelor thesis describes status of peoples with mental illness in public health. It adverts to stigmatization which patient with mental illness meet with. Thesis put the accent to negative effect of this stigmatization.

The goal of bachelor thesis is in quantitative research of health workers behavior to people with mental illness. The investigation compares behavior of health worker to patient with some mental illness and to patients without any mental anamnesis. Research based on two different groups of patients. First group consists of psychiatric hospitalized patients visited non-psychiatric ambulances. Second group consists of patients with no mental anamnesis visited the same ambulant station.