

Annotation

This bachelor thesis deals with adult and young adult cystic fibrosis patients and their subjective perception of quality of life. It gives thorough description of cystic fibrosis. Nursing and psychological treatment for cystic fibrosis are characterized. Related key terms and issues are also mentioned, such as quality of life and quality of life related to health. An overview of latest findings in the field of quality of life for cystic fibrosis patients is given. Social context of the disease is outlined, as well social background and the network of CF care centers and organizations.