

Abstract

The diploma thesis "Integration of Immigrants in Austria after 1990 on the Example of the Capital City of Vienna" deals with the Austrian integration policy towards immigrants. In the first part, integration, integration policy and the target group of integration are defined. Trends in the policy on the level of the central government since 1990s are described in the following section. The main part of the thesis deals with the integration policy in Vienna, analyzing the activities of the two key institutions of the municipal policy (Vienna Integration Fund and the Municipal Department 17) and summarizing the political discussion on key problems of the Viennese integration policy (like citizenship, political participation, segregation or education policy) to answer the question, how active is the governing party in Vienna - SPÖ - in this area field and what are the limits of this policy.
