Course of defence: Main problems of dissertation were first rather bad editing and wording which made the understanding of the text a little bit problematic. Second trouble is rather a disintegrated concept of the text where first the comparison of the two cases is not sufficiently explained and the two main sources were treated as equal even if there are many dissimilarities. Also the quantitative content analysis could be better integrated to the text. Reviewers were proposing B, C, D respectively, final verdict is C.
